

Saudi Macro & Sector Snapshot — GASTAT/SAMA

لمحة الاقتصاد الكلي السعودي — الهيئة العامة للإحصاء وساما

Compiled: 13 July 2026

Primary sources: General Authority for Statistics (GASTAT, stats.gov.sa), Saudi Central Bank (SAMA, sama.gov.sa)

Coverage: Real GDP growth (quarterly & annual), consumer & wholesale prices, digital economy & ICT indicators, household income & expenditure, SAMA policy rate & money supply

Every figure below carries an inline publication title, source name, URL and release date. Figures are transcribed exactly as printed in the cited official publication — none are derived, annualized, rebased or estimated. Where GASTAT's own release materials show an internal inconsistency (e.g. a headline vs. body-text mismatch), the body-text figure is used and the discrepancy is left unresolved rather than silently corrected. Where a figure could not be verified from a primary GASTAT/SAMA release within the research window, it is sourced to a named secondary outlet citing GASTAT/SAMA data, with that outlet's own publish date — never left unmarked as if primary.

Inflation in Saudi Arabia reaches 1.8% in March 2026 (headline) — CPI & WPI release, plus FY2025 annual average

GASTAT · 15 April 2026 · stats.gov.sa/en/w/news/180

Note: this release's own headline reads "1.8%" while its body text states the CPI annual rate as "1.9% in March 2026, compared with March 2025" — the two do not match in GASTAT's own publication. The body-text figure (1.9%) is used below per this pack's sourcing rule (see cover callout). The same release also carries the Wholesale Price Index (WPI), covering price movements at the pre-retail stage for a fixed basket of 343 items. The FY2025 annual-average rows below are Argaam's report of GASTAT's full-year data (CPI index 103.57 in 2025 vs. 101.50 in 2024, avg. inflation 2.0%) — cited separately in the Source column since Argaam, not a direct GASTAT release, is the only place this pack found it stated.

Per-capita disposable income sourced from remittances received	17.8%	2023

This publication has no dedicated "restaurants & accommodation services" expenditure-share figure in running text (only a pie chart whose segment-to-label mapping cannot be reliably reconstructed from the extracted layout) — marked n/a — not sourced rather than read off the chart. Use the CPI release's restaurants & accommodation services price index (Section 2) for food-service-relevant pricing instead.

4. Monetary Policy — SAMA

SAMA's Decision on Repo and Reverse Repo Rates

Saudi Central Bank (SAMA) · 10 December 2025 · sama.gov.sa/en-us/mediacenter/news/pages/news-1124.aspx

SAMA cut the Repurchase Agreement (Repo) rate by 25bps to 4.25%, and the Reverse Repo rate by 25bps to 3.75%, mirroring a same-week US Federal Reserve cut under the SAR/USD peg. No further change had been reported as of this pack's compile date (13 July 2026) — secondary reporting (economymiddleeast.com, accessed 12 July 2026) still shows the repo rate at 4.25% in May 2026.

METRIC	VALUE	EFFECTIVE
