1. Keeta's Entry & the Start of the Price War

Meituan's Keeta brand entered Saudi Arabia in September 2024, triggering the current discount-led competitive cycle.

Food delivery platform Keeta expands to Riyadh with SR1bn investment

Arab News · 9 Oct 2024 · arabnews.com/node/2574628/corporate-news

Keeta (Meituan's international arm) entered Saudi Arabia via Riyadh in September 2024, backed by a SAR 1 billion (US$266.6m) investment commitment. CEO Tony Qiu tied the push to Vision 2030 and a market the company projected to reach 19.2 million online food-delivery users by 2029 — the opening move in what became a price war with the two KSA incumbents.

Delivery app Keeta takes on Hungerstation in Saudi Arabia

Rest of World · 10 Mar 2025 · restofworld.org/2025/delivery-app-keeta-hungerstation-saudi-arabia

Four months after launch, Keeta had captured roughly 10% of KSA food-delivery order volume and 3.6 million app downloads, becoming the #3 platform behind HungerStation and Jahez on the back of SAR 100 sign-up vouchers, 50%-off first orders and fee-free delivery. Analysts flagged the open question of whether a growth-before-profit playbook — funded by Meituan, whose market cap the article reported at roughly 10x Delivery Hero's — could be sustained once discounting eased.

Meituan to launch quick commerce in Saudi Arabia after Keeta food delivery

Momentum Works — The Low Down · 17 Dec 2024 · thelowdown.momentum.asia

Three months after Keeta's food-delivery launch, Meituan staffed a 100+-person Xiaoxiang Supermarket (dark-store grocery) team for Saudi Arabia — a multi-year, resource-heavy commitment rather than a quick in-and-out. Rival Chinese operator Dingdong Maicai was separately reported preparing its own KSA entry for early 2025, underscoring how the market drew a wave of Chinese capital simultaneously.

2. Dark Stores, Discounting & New Entrants

The battle for Saudi quick commerce

FWDstart (Jamie Lane & Zoe O'Dwyer) · 11 Apr 2025 · fwdstart.me/p/the-battle-for-saudi-quick-commerce

By April 2025 four operators were already "entrenched and fighting tooth and nail for market share" ahead of a fifth entrant, Rabbit. Rabbit's CEO framed the contest as "a supply chain challenge — not a marketing one," positioning operational density and fulfilment discipline against the incumbents' discount-led acquisition — an early signal the price war would eventually force a shift back toward cost discipline.

Ninja — company profile (funding, valuation, footprint)

Sacra · valuation event Jul 2025, profile accessed 12 Jul 2026 · sacra.com/c/ninja

Ninja, the Dhahran-based 30-minute quick-commerce operator, reached unicorn status at a US$1.5 billion valuation on a US$254 million pre-IPO round led by Riyad Capital (Jul 2025), running 100+ dark-store hubs across 28+ cities as of Feb 2025 (40+ by late 2025) and stating a Tadawul IPO target by 2027 — evidence that KSA quick-commerce competition is being funded by growth capital, not just incumbent balance sheets.

Saudi Arabia Quick Commerce Market Report 2026: Jahez, HungerStation and Nana Direct Lead Expansion

Research and Markets (via GlobeNewswire) · 17 Apr 2026 · globenewswire.com — release 3276234

Sizes the Saudi quick-commerce segment at US$1.14bn (2024) growing to US$1.24bn (2025E) and roughly US$1.72bn by 2029 (2025–29 CAGR ~8.5%). Citing Transport General Authority order data, Jahez held roughly one-third of Kingdom delivery orders in 2024 (91m of 290m platform orders); the report notes both Jahez and HungerStation remained solidly profitable that year even as new entrants pushed on price.

Saudi Arabia Quick Commerce Market — industry report

Mordor Intelligence · last updated 27 May 2026 · mordorintelligence.com/industry-reports/saudi-arabia-quick-commerce-market

Using a broader quick-commerce definition (dark-store grocery + food), sizes the market at US$1.93bn (2025) rising to US$2.38bn (2026E) and US$6.86bn by 2031 (23.5% CAGR), and puts the combined order share of the top three platforms — Keeta, Jahez and HungerStation — above 90% in Q3 2025. Flags >95% smartphone penetration and ~80% digital-payment adoption as structural tailwinds; grocery/staples was the largest 2025 category (53.6% share).

Note on the two market-size estimates above: the ~2x gap between the GlobeNewswire/Research and Markets figure (narrower "food-delivery platform GMV" scope) and the Mordor Intelligence figure (broader "quick commerce" scope incl. grocery dark-stores) reflects a genuine definitional difference between providers, not an error — do not average them. Use the narrower figure for food-delivery-specific sizing and the broader figure when grocery/quick-commerce dark-store TAM is in scope.

3. Jahez Earnings Coverage — FY2025 & Q1 2026

Argaam is Saudi Arabia's primary financial-disclosure aggregator (Tadawul-linked); figures below are cross-checked against Jahez's own results announcements.

Jahez reports FY2025 results with 10.8% GMV growth while maintaining profitability in a highly competitive market

Jahez Group results release, Argaam-sourced figures · 30 Mar 2026 · mid-east.info \(release syndication\); cross-check argaam.com/en/tadawul/tasi/jahez

Group GMV reached SAR 7.2bn in FY2025 (+10.8% YoY), net revenue SAR 2.3bn (+4.7% YoY), and Group Adjusted EBITDA exceeded SAR 193m — down from SAR 250m in FY2024 on price-war-driven margin compression. The KSA delivery-platform segment stayed profitable (net income SAR 214.8m, adj. EBITDA margin 11.9%) even as KSA platform revenue fell 8.6% YoY as Jahez repositioned delivery fees more competitively. Management called sustained Group-level profitability "a key differentiator versus regional peers who prioritized volume over profitability."

Jahez CEO: Q4 impacted by SAR 55M one-off items, revenue may rise 7–21% in 2026

Argaam · 31 Mar 2026 · argaam.com/en/article/articledetail/id/1892181

Q4 2025 profit was dented by roughly SAR 55m of one-off items (SAR 23.4m credit-loss provisions, SAR 11.8m goodwill impairment, SAR 12m investment losses, SAR 8m acquisition costs), even as Q4 GMV grew 23% YoY to SAR 2.1bn and international markets (via the Snoonu acquisition) reached 37.4% of Q4 GMV, up from 10.7% a year earlier. Management guided FY2026 revenue growth of 7–21%, GMV growth of 10–20%, and adjusted EBITDA of SAR 200–220m, with profitability improving in H2 2026.

Jahez reports net loss of SAR 9.2M in Q1 2026

Argaam · 11 May 2026 · argaam.com/en/financial-reports/company-report/13502/2026/70

Jahez swung to a Group net loss of SAR 9.2m in Q1 2026 (vs. SAR 35.3m net profit in Q1 2025) despite revenue growing 37.9% YoY to SAR 725.1m, as operating expenses rose to SAR 179.9m on Snoonu consolidation and stepped-up marketing spend. This is the clearest single data point yet that the Keeta-triggered price war has moved from margin compression to an outright quarterly loss at the KSA market leader.
